Please join us for a post-show Q and A with the cast and crew after the Thursday production. Audiences are invited to a Director's Round Table for a chance to talk with the director, Senior History/Theatre double major Abigail Davis, about her choices, direction and relevance of the show. This will take place Friday, March 2nd in the Underground at 6:00 pm. Audiences are also invited to a Post-Show Talk Back with Monmouth College Faculty after the Sunday Matinee. All Pre-Show/Post-Show events offer refreshments and are free, open to the public! Crimson Masque: Expect Excellence!

The Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival™ 44, part of the Rubenstein Arts Access Program, is generously funded by David and Alice Rubenstein. Additional support is provided by the U.S. Department of Education, the Dr. Gerald and Paula McNichols Foundation, The Honorable Stuart Bernstein and Wilma E. Bernstein, and the National Committee for the Performing Arts.

This production is entered in the Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival (KCACTF). The aims of this national theater education program are to identify and promote quality in college level theater production. To this end, each production entered is eligible for a response by a regional KCACTF representative, and selected students and faculty are invited to participate in KCACTF programs involving scholarships, internships, grants and awards for actors, directors, dramaturges, playwrights, designers, stage managers and critics at both the regional and national levels.

Productions entered on the Participating level are eligible for inclusion at the KCACTF regional festival and can also be considered for invitation to the KCACTF national festival at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, DC in the spring of 2012.

Last year more than 1,300 productions were entered in the KCACTF involving more than 200,000 students nationwide. By entering this production, our theater department is sharing in the KCACTF goals to recognize, reward, and celebrate the exemplary work produced in college and university theaters across the nation.

Director's Note

On September 22, 2010 Tyler Clementi, an 18 year old student from Rutgers's University committed suicide by jumping off the George Washington Bridge. This happened after his roommate secretly streamed video of Tyler having an intimate encounter with another man within the privacy of his own room. This week begins the trial for Tyler's former roommate, Dharun Ravi, who is charged with bias intimidation, invasion of privacy and other counts. We as a community must decide if he is responsible for the death of Tyler. On average 30-40% of LGBTQ youth are reported to have attempted suicide. (Youth Suicide Prevention Program) This number is attributed to the amount of bullying that takes place towards the LGBTQ community. This bullying is present everywhere, even here at Monmouth College. As a student, I hear of students making snide comments in the hallway toward others, or even student avoiding classes or the school altogether because of the sexual orientation of classmates or professors. What I believe is that people don't understand the negative impact their actions have on those that they are discriminating against. To quote Reggie Fluty, the officer who found Matthew Shepard, "We just gotta take responsibility for ourselves, and what we think and what we say and what we do." The topic of hate crimes is not old news and is still prevalent in today's society. We as a community, not just locally but nationally as well, must own who we are and what we do and say. I hope that someday that everyone will understand the negative impact of discrimination and that we must take responsibility for our actions.
