The artifact I used was an analysis and evaluation of the Drudge Report website. It is a website that is extremely detailed and always changing. Because of this I picked one point in time and looked at the website at that time. I analyzed it through the means of nine key points of journalism explained in the paper. I then went through each point and evaluated whether the Drudge Report followed those points of journalism citing from various sources for credibility and validity. Each point is a paragraph going into detail of evaluation. To conclude, I decided through my analysis and evaluation that accuracy and objectivity were violated through most of the Drudge Report. I discussed the issues around these violations and what could be done to improve the website so not to be in violation of the Code of Ethics.
